

HIKIKOMORI UK

Terms of Use

Last updated: June 2026

1. About these terms

By using the Hikikomori UK website you agree to these terms. We may update them from time to time, and the version published here always applies.

2. What this website is for

Our website provides information and signposting for families affected by prolonged social withdrawal. It is offered in good faith to help and inform, but it is not a substitute for medical, legal, or other professional advice.

3. Signposting, not endorsement

Where we link to or list other organisations and services, this is for information only. A listing is not an endorsement unless we say so explicitly, and we are not responsible for the content or services of third parties.

4. Your responsibilities

Please use the site respectfully and lawfully, and do not submit content that is unlawful, harmful, or infringes other people's rights.

We are not a crisis service. If someone is in immediate danger, call 999.

5. Accuracy and liability

We take care to keep information accurate and up to date, but we cannot guarantee it is complete or error-free, and we accept no liability for decisions taken on the basis of it.

6. Contact

If you have any questions about these terms, please get in touch through our Contact page.
